The iPhone 11 has been launched. It's here. And while I'm at launch at brand new, redesigned, redesigned, 2.0 version of the 5th Ave. Storage was, I started to think about, as I was there... as I stood in line, as I looked over all the choices... not just one iPhone and just one more iPhone, but a range of choices and options and colors... which one would I get? And, perhaps more importantly, a day from now, a week from now, if I kept my old iPhone for as long as I could, and I just wanted or wanted a new one, if I was just walking into a store, or even shopping online, what iPhone would I want for the next year or more? If that's what you think, don't worry, I've got you. The iPhone 11 has been launched. It's here. If you just want a modern iPhone that lets you do pretty much anything, then you have the new iPhone for everyone, the new baseline, the new 6.1-inch iPhone 11 starting at $699. If that's still a little rich for your blood, even with trade-ins and installments, then you can get last year's 6.1-inch iPhone XR at a new reduced price, starting at $599. If home buttons are still your thing, you can start the 2017 iPhone 8 or iPhone 8 Plus, all 4.7- or 5.5-inch, now at $449. If you want the ultimate iPhone, with an OLED screen, extra telephoto, up to 512GB of storage and fastest LTE, you want the new 5.8-inch iPhone 11 Pro, starting at $999. If you want it as big as Apple is possible right now, you want the new 6.5-inch iPhone 11 Pro Max, starting at $1,099. Need more? Let's dive deeper. iPhone 11: The new iPhone for everyone. If you need a new iPhone and that's all you really need. If your old iPhone just won't make it another year or you've sold or traded in, so your budget says go-go gadget upgrade go, or if you've used Android as just a phone and you're ready to get on the iPhone, then get the iPhone 11. It has a 6.1-inch, 1792-by-828-pixel resolution at 326 ppi, Wide range LCD screen, with True Tone ambient temperature matching, can go into zoom mode if your eyes are not what they used to be, Apple's screaming fast A13 Bionic chipset, same as the Pro, a lightning connector, Face ID, spatial stereo sound, Gigabit LTE, Wi-Fi 6, dual SIM, charging wirelessly, 4m water resistance, long battery life, and a new 12mp 2 camera system includes wide angle and 120° 120° wide angle, portrait mode and lighting, arguably the best night mode, undeniably the best 4K 60fps EDR video and new 85° 12 megapixel selfie camera, including slow mo selfies. You get it in black or white, or in new shades of yellow and red, or all-new mint green or lavender purple colors, with 64, 128 or 256 GB of storage, and for $50 less than what the iPhone XR cost last year - starting at $699. The 128GB version is only $50 more, and I would recommend that, especially if you have a trade-in or installments. Read the full iPhone 11 Review. If you want a modern iPhone that lets you do pretty much anything, you'll have the new iPhone for everyone - the new baseline - the new 6.1-inch iPhone 11. If the iPhone 11 is just too much, you last year's XR, with A12 Bionic chipset, single wide angle camera, 7mp selfie camera, 1m water resistance, no green or purple, but coral orange or sky blue options, and up to 128GB of storage, starting at $599. The battery life is just slightly less, it lacks the ultra-wide angle, and it doesn't have A13, but it was the most popular smartphone in the world last year and it will still find you this year. If you really, really still want that Home button, and you don't care about pretty much anything, not speed, not cameras, not bezels, not nothing, the 4.8-inch iPhone 8 is still around, but now start at just $449, and the 5.5-inch, dual-camera Plus version, now starting at just $549. Read the full iPhone XR review. If the price of the iPhone 11 is still just a bit rich for your blood, even with trade-in and installments, then you can get last year's 6.1-inch iPhone XR at a new reduced price. If you definitely don't want to even spend a dime more and you want to buy new, or you definitely see the classic design as positive and not negative, and they can pry home button and touch ID from your cold dead figures, then the iPhone 8 still offers some of the benefits of a modern iPhone and for much less than any new iPhone. So, if you love everything about your existing iPhone 4 or 5, 6 or 7, or if you just want to get off your last, old, free phone and get on iOS, with a quality built, free feature complete iPhone that will come through in the next few years, you can get on the iPhone or iPhone 8, and start at $250 less than the current iPhone 11 - starting at $449. Read the full iPhone 8 in 2019 review. If Home buttons are still your thing, you can get the 2017 iPhone 8 or iPhone 8 Plus, all 4.7 or 5.5-inch. If you need a new iPhone and you want the absolute best iPhone available, you care deeply about dynamic range, inky black, excessive brightness, and OLED panels, you want camera that goes from ultra wide angle all the way to tele, with portrait mode on both telephoto and wide angle, the new night mode, long and longer battery life, and know and care about exactly what 4x4 MIMO LTE is and a textured matte finish to then you want the iPhone 11 Pro. Here's what you specify: Some screen size, dropping from 6.1 in eleven to 5.8 on the Pro. That also eliminates Display Zoom, just in case you need it. The lack of OLED pulse width modulation on the panel, if you know what that is a feeling carried by it, and the greater range of shiny colors, especially yellow, red and purple. Here's what you get: Higher density, 2436-by-1125-pixel resolution at 458 ppi, 2 million to 1 contrast ratio higher dynamic range, darker, now 800 durable, 1200 peak brightness OLED screen, that third, telephoto lens that gives you 2x optical zoom, you can also get portrait mode and lighting, and up to 4K 60fps EDR video from a different perspective. 4x4 MIMO LTE, as I said, a new battery that can go up to 4 hours longer than before, and new matte glass finishes in silver, space gray, gold, and new midnight green. In addition, the storage of 64 GB to 256 GB goes all the way up to 512 GB. Starting, though, at $999. If you want the ultimate iPhone, with an OLED screen, extra telephoto camera, up to 512GB of storage and the fastest LTE, you want the new 5.8-inch iPhone 11 Pro. If you need a new iPhone, but you not only want the very best, you want the absolute biggest, with everything the Pro has to offer, just more of it on offer, with a screen the size of the name, then you want the iPhone 11 Pro Max. Here's what you give up: The ability to even try, to even try or pretend to use your phone 1-handed. And, depending on the density of your skinny hipster jeans, the ability to slip into just about any pocket, front or back. And this is what you get: everything from the iPhone 11 Pro, but with a 6.5-inch screen and a battery then can go an extra 5 hours, not just 4. Same colors, same storage options, but starting at $1,099. If you want it as big as Apple is possible right now, you want the new 6.5-inch iPhone 11 Pro Max. OK, I know that got a little complicated, especially towards the end there. So I'm going to put the plate down and rewind it.
